BSc single honours

ACCOUNTING AND MANAGEMENT

2016/17

WHY ACCOUNTING AND MANAGEMENT?

Many Accountants occupy key managerial positions in business, yet few are qualified managers. This new degree was created in response to market demand for graduates with specialist Accounting knowledge, competent to manage and to lead. It is anticipated that students will effectively structure part of their degree, incorporating their own work-experience as case-studies for relevant assessments.

This single honours Accounting and Management programme is structured to achieve some exemptions with the professional accounting bodies; the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA), the Institute of Chartered Accountants England and Wales (ICAEW) and the Chartered Institute of Management Accountants (CIMA).

Additionally it is accredited by the Association of Project Managers and by the Chartered Management Institute. On successful completion of the relevant modules, students will achieve certification with these organisations, enhancing employment prospects.

On all of our Accounting degree programmes, knowledge, critical analysis and interpersonal skills are developed through lectures, seminars, workshops and a variety of assessment modes. These satisfy academic, professional, and commercial requirements. Guest speakers are regularly invited to address our students, with our annual ‘Accounting Futures’ event promoting student interaction with businesses and with accounting firms.

WHAT WILL I STUDY?

The first year of this degree is mainly in common with other students on the Business Suite of Programmes. This provides a solid grounding in the challenges of managing organisations, information technology, and analytical skills. It provides an essential foundation to these programmes while allowing flexibility to choose a variety of pathways in the second and third years of study. There is a specialist Accounting module for students on Accounting pathways (including Accounting and Management), ensuring that you are competent in the principles of accounting.

In Year 2 you will develop your operational knowledge of the disciplines of accounting and of management with the core modules Human Resource Management, Management Accounting, Project Management, and Management & Leadership. These will be supplemented with 2 other modules of your choice from the Business Suite.

In Year 3 the focus is on strategic issues. You will study Contemporary Accounting Issues, and Financial Management, both of which are core for all Accounting students. The other core modules, which focus on developing your leadership skills, are Practical Management, and Strategic Management.

WHAT CAN I DO NEXT?

This degree will provide a gateway to a variety of careers in business. It is anticipated that your degree, focussing on the complementary disciplines of Accountancy and of Management, will enhance your employability prospects. Excellent mentoring by our experienced team will guide and prepare students for your career.

SPECIAL FEATURES

If you are studying on a programme within the Business School, you have the opportunity to undertake a year in industry as an optional part of your degree. You spend the third year of a four year degree in a full-time, paid work placement with an employer. The University's Career and Development service will support you in finding suitable work placements and you will also receive tutorial support from an academic member of staff throughout the year. This contributes to your professional development by giving you real world experience in a business environment. You can register on the programme at the end of your first year.
