Don is a qualified barrister. He qualified as a mediator in 2004, a course run by Alan Stitt and Frank Handy. In 2008, he received his qualification as an ADR Group Mediator. He specialises in commercial disputes.

Don finds the relationship with his lay clients to be 'one of the most satisfying aspects of his job'. He has enormous experience in dealing with clients of every kind, and was one of the first barristers to qualify for Public Access work, by conducting cases that deal directly with the client without any solicitor, this is now permitted subject to certain safeguards and exceptions. All this feeds straight into and enhances his capacities as a mediator.
