

International Projects and Research: Vietnam

Overseas Teaching: The 'Flying Faculty'

A neonatal nursing training programme designed to improve outcomes for mothers and babies in Vietnam is currently taking place, thanks to the collaborative work of the University with a local Vietnamese hospital and their Department of Health. Nurses say they are already seeing benefit with birth-complications reducing through enhancing their understanding of practical skills.