

CONVERSATIONS ON EUROPE™
The Continent Is Cut Off!
The British Referendum on the EU
Tuesday, 19 April 2016 • 12—1:30 p.m. • 4217 Posvar

This June citizens in the United Kingdom will vote on that country's place in Europe. At a time of rising Euroscepticism there and across Europe, Great Britain will decide if it is better off facing the range of challenges to the European project—economic growth, migration, terrorism, conflict on its borders—by itself or as part of the EU. The results of the referendum will have implications for the entire UK (including Northern Ireland and Scotland), for the economic and political integrity of the EU, and for Great Britain's ties with key continental countries and with the US. Panelists will address these aspects and many others and will respond to each other and to questions posed by the audience. To join the Conversation and for more information, please contact Kate Bowersox at kal68@pitt.edu.

Panelists:

Michelle Egan, Professor, School of International Service,
American University

Amelia Hadfield, Jean Monnet Chair in European Foreign Affairs,
Canterbury Christ Church University

Tim Oliver, Dahrendorf Fellow on Europe-North American
Relations, London School of Economics

Alan Sked, Professor Emeritus of International History, London
School of Economics (founder and former member of UK Independence Party)

Made possible through generous support from the European Commission

University of Pittsburgh | University Center for International Studies |
www.ucis.pitt.edu/esc

To be added to our flyer distribution list write to europeanstudies@pitt.edu.

